Reading

- This week in reading we worked on building our reading community. We talked about what good readers do while they read.

Language Arts

- This week we learned that every sentence needs a naming part (subject) and an action part (verb).

Math

- In math we reviewed addition skills. We learned strategies to effectively answer word problems.

Social Studies

- This week we learned about community helpers. We identified a few community helpers in our social studies journals.

Religion

- We talked about how God is our creator. The students wrote about what they were thankful for, and also drew pictures of God's creations.

Notes:

Thank you to everyone who came to Parent Information Night on Wednesday! I am so happy you could make it. Please note that we will not be starting our weekly homework until the week of September 11th. I encourage you to be reading with your child every day. We will continue with our Simple Solutions Tests next week.
